

Consultant Position Overview

About enlight

enlight is a rapidly growing, boutique management consulting firm that strives to create unique value for our clients with insights that achieve sustainable competitive advantage and deliver financial results. Working principally with CEOs, senior executives and board members in both corporate and nonprofit client organizations across a wide range of market sectors and industries, enlight helps clients craft Strategy, align Structure and manage Execution to maximize value creation. Our collaborative approach uses a unique combination of analytical rigor and a practical understanding of our clients' culture, capabilities and context. enlight supports clients by bringing independent research and analytical capabilities as well as robust facilitation and decision support skills. At enlight, we believe that the secret to achieving and maintaining business success is an artful combination of analysis and provocation. This perspective is embodied in enlight's mantra: evaluate. inspire. profit.

Consulting is an apprenticeship business where skills and knowledge are developed through side-by-side working experiences with more seasoned consultants. We believe that strong skills develop best through practical experience and deliberate coaching. At enlight, you will work closely with partners with a broad range of industry experience, diverse consulting firm backgrounds (including BCG, Diamond Technology Partners and Cleveland Consulting Associates) and a range of operating company expertise.

About the position

Consultants are intimately involved in all phases of engagements. We work in small teams, together with clients to help solve their toughest problems. Our team-based approach to engagements emphasizes a combination of individual initiative and collaboration with colleagues. This approach offers our employees the opportunity to not only work closely with and learn from colleagues at all levels of the firm but to also take ownership of their own work and contributions.

Primarily, Consultants conduct primary and secondary research, design and build financial and analytical models, perform financial analysis, interpret research findings to achieve unique insight, manage project deadlines, develop final deliverables and help manage client relationships. Like all enlight employees, Consultants are expected to be generalists, obtaining strong consulting skills and robust experience in a variety of industries, functional areas and sectors.

About the ideal candidates enlight seeks well-rounded, hard-working and energetic MBAs with a demonstrated interest in strategic business issues.
